

Royal Security Police Service

Official Police Report – Criminal Investigations

Filed by: Deputy Commissioner Benjamin Farzan
Officer Commanding, Criminal Police Division

Date: 8 July 2006

Further to some information provided to me by King Jeremy of New Britannia about Jacob Campbell (who I invited to join Gotzburg prior to having the conversation with him), I have done some background checking about said individual.

Jacob approached me a few days ago asking for advice on how to become a respected micronationalist, and I told him to join a respected nation such as Gotzburg, since that would give him the credibility he'd need to launch a stable nation. He at first considered bringing in his new creation as a subdivision of somewhere else, and then once he'd established it a bit, secede, although I believe I may have talked him out of this. I later spoke to King Jeremy of New Britannia, who told me that the fellow was a rather unpleasant racist, which appears to have been borne out by Jacob's friend and Lovely-sector partner Curtis Sinclair, whom I had a conversation with to follow up on this, and I have logged and attached the conversation, which makes for some interesting reading. He also took some disparaging comments I made about the failings of Lovely-sector micronations, and then twisted them and used them to slag me off behind my back, claiming that I had described them all as a bunch of "immature secessionist failures", when in fact the original description was that they had failings that needed to be addressed, and were still young and yet to mature. Jacob's description of himself as "born in Northern Ireland and am extremely patriotic" is of particular concern, given that he has made several disparaging comments about Roman Catholics and attempted to establish a branch of the Orange Order in his original micronation. Conflict with citizens such as Colonel O'Neill (who I believe has Republican sympathies), and Pope Camillus, as well as other Roman Catholic citizens, could be of concern.

Jacob has also expressed to me that his desire within Gotzburg is essentially to become Royal Chancellor and then use his time in that position to establish sufficient credibility to re-launch his old nation. He is not aware of the difficulty of attaining this office, nor should he be informed as to this, since it allows us to harness his efforts to our own ends. The government should also refuse to admit anything along the lines of "Manturia" (sic), since this is the nation which Mr. Campbell has created and wants to last. He has also demonstrated his immaturity on several occasions now, such as after he slagged me off behind my back and I told him off, he made a demand of me to "give me respect", and when I described him as a "shitstirrer", his response was that only he and I would know that.

I have also included a conversation with King Oscar of Oscland, who also suggests that we distrust Jacob, although his reliability in this matter may be somewhat questionable:

Jacob Campbell is involved with Curtis Sinclair, they both sort of run Tchistanski. Because of Jacob's involvement with Curtis Jacob is untrustable. He has been involved in many scams with Curtis some of which pointed at Oscland, and it is because of these scams that Oscland isnt progressed as far as it could be.. basically, dont trust him

Benjamin Farzan, OP says:

scams?

Oscar - <http://mmgland.co.uk/oscar%20illusion/> says:

yeh.. he once tried to hack oscland, he spams people and there have been loads of others that I cannot remember

I will provide more information as it becomes available.